

POLICE FEAR LYNCHING OF AURORA MURDER SUSPECT—HUNT FOR NEW EVIDENCE

Emma Peterson, the "Gas Pipe" Victim

Frank Ramsey, arrested in Chicago today as the suspected murderer of Emma Peterson, third woman to be mysteriously beaten to death in a year at Aurora, was taken to Aurora today. He went under heavy guard as the city is in a frenzy and a lynching has been threatened.

Ramsey was arrested as a suspect when Jennie Miller, one of the other victims was murdered.

In Ramsey's room at 811 Washington blvd., Chicago, was found a piece of lead pipe that was similar to the piece found by the body of the dead girl.

Search for the murderer of Emma

Peterson of Aurora has spread throughout Northern Illinois. In Aurora, the city where the "gas pipe murder" is third of a series of brutal attacks resulting in the death of young girls, the chase for the fiend has lead to the Hungarian settlement on the outskirts of the city.

In Chicago, where the authorities fear the feeling man has hidden, two arrests were made on suspicion.

In an effort to regain scent of the murderer, who was traced to the banks of the Fox river by bloodhounds, the dogs were raced up and down the stream last night.
